before reading the Finding and commenting thereon, Mr. McMahon requested and received permission to go off the record to discuss details of each of the covert action programs as well as permission to review the transcript for purposes of sanitization at the conclusion of the briefing. Mr. McMahon then proceeded to read the prepared statement. At the conclusion of the reading of Item #11 of the worldwide Finding, Chairman Zablocki, Representative Broomfield, and Staff Chief Jack Brady left the briefing. Representative Bingham then chaired the session.

25X1 5. [] At the conclusion of the reading of the prepared statement, Representative Bingham said that he appreciated very much the candor with which the briefing was given. He added, however, that the presentation indicated that the material was considerably condensed and stated that he hoped the Subcommittee could receive a more detailed briefing at a later date. He then asked questions regarding the meaning of the use of the words "task" and "Perspectives," which were answered. He then asked why no comprehensive Finding had been signed between January, 1975 and the present date. At this point, Representative Hamilton left the briefing. Mr. Bingham asked additional questions concerning the meaning of the terms "unconventional warfare," "exposed," and "counter," which were adequately explained by Mr. McMahon.

25X1 7. [] Mr. Studds then asked to have the portion of the prepared statement that he had missed reread. He then commented that communications between the Congress as a whole and CIA, in his opinion, were not as good as they should be but laid most of the blame at the feet of Congress. He then related a story of how he had asked when he first came to Congress six years ago who in Congress was aware of CIA activities and discovered that nobody really knew. He also asked questions as to what Committees receive reports on covert action Findings and what Committees we now reported to concerning all activities of CIA. He then asked whether future covert action briefings would only be given the Subcommittee when a new Presidential Finding was signed or whether there would be periodic reviews of all covert action programs for the Subcommittee. This question was answered to the effect that that depended on the Committee's desires.
